THINGS TO DO AFTER A CAR ACCIDENT

CALL THE POLICE

Police reports are vital for personal injury claims. The sooner they respond, the more accurate the details. Reports include driver/vehicle info and insurance, aiding your case.

GET OTHER DRIVER'S NAME & INSURANCE

Liability insurance pays most injury claims, but without the at-fault driver's info, it's difficult. Photograph their license and insurance card to strengthen your claim.

SEEK TREATMENT FOR YOUR INJURY

Early diagnosis & treatment are crucial. Delays raise red flags for insurers, linking injuries to later events.

OPEN A CLAIM WITH OTHER DRIVER'S INSURANCE

If the other driver's at fault, their insurance covers repairs and a rental car during repairs. Notify them quickly to access these benefits without any cost to you.

INFORM YOUR INSURANCE COMPANY

Notify your insurer too, but rates stay flat if not at fault. PIP may cover some medical costs, and underinsured motorist coverage helps if the other driver lacks proper insurance.

CALL AN ATTORNEY

Prioritize legal help. Early involvement guides you through the complex personal injury maze. You'll avoid insurer interactions and have a professional team by your side.
